Remarkable Experience

Better air quality for all of us

Know South Australia's

Laws for Burning in the Open

With the cooler months upon us, a reminder on the proper use of wood heaters and burning in the open during winter. Domestic wood smoke from poorly operated wood heaters and burning in the open can impact on neighbouring properties and creates a nuisance, as well as contributing to poor local air quality.

There are laws surrounding burning in the open and compliance standards for wood heaters.

For further information please contact the Council or go to the EPA's website: www.epa.sa.gov.au/woodsmoke.

Congratulations and welcome to our newest Australian citizen!

Mayor Phillip Heaslip was proud to welcome Ms Huong Giap during a special citizenship ceremony in Melrose on Tuesday 20 April 2021. Congratulations Huong!

Port Germein Foreshore Market 30th Anniversary

It's surprising to realise that the Markets, which commenced in 1991 as a produce market, was one of the earliest outside of the greater Adelaide region. Goods and produce from the Flinders Ranges that were once shipped from Port Germein to the Adelaide markets are now sold at Port Germein.

From its inception the markets have moved around the town from the block of land next to the Junk Shop, (now the Post Office) to the grounds of the Port Germein Hotel and finally coming full circle to the historic Foreshore Goods Shed.

Held on the 4th Sunday of the month and conducted as a community fundraiser by Port Germein Heritage Arts and Tourism Association. Locals and visitors alike can enjoy both the backdrop of the historical Port Germein Jetty and the Flinders Ranges.

There is no better location to enjoy the variety of goods on offer. From seasonal fresh produce, locally produced small goods, cakes, biscuits, preserves to plants, jewellery and collectables; supporting groups like the CWA all to the smell of egg and bacon damper rolls cooking.

Port Germein Foreshore Market a truly Remarkable Experience.
